

AMMEGA

October 29, 2019

AMMEGA and its Global Divisions – Ammeraal Beltech, Megadyne and Jason Industrial are pleased to announce the appointment of Tom Doring as its new President of the Americas. In his new role, Tom will oversee the activities of each division in North, Central and South America.

Tom will succeed Philip Cohenca who served as President of the Americas for AMMEGA since the merger of Ammeraal Beltech, Megadyne and Jason in September of 2018. Philip, who recently retired, will remain as a consultant to the Ammega Group.

Tom joins AMMEGA after having served most recently as Executive Vice President and Chief Strategy Officer of Southwire Company. Prior to this, Tom was President of the Americas for Vacon – an industrial technology company where he grew the business 15% per year for eight consecutive years, leading to the sale of Vacon to Danfoss. As the Head of Danfoss Drives, Tom led the Commercial integration program globally. Prior to this, Tom worked at Eaton where he served in several managerial roles.

With his broad range of experiences and energetic leadership style, Tom brings the right mix of entrepreneurial and continuous improvement mindset to the AMMEGA Americas organization.

Tom is a graduate of the University of Dayton where he earned a BS in Electrical Engineering and completed his Graduate work at Syracuse University.

He is married and has four children.

Ammeraal Beltech, Megadyne and Jason Industrial are leading manufacturers and suppliers of conveyor belt, power transmission belts and fluid power hose worldwide.

